REASONS FOR CAMPAIGN

WHY SHOULD WE CAMPAIGN AGAINST INCREASING STUDENT FEES?

- Not as many people will be able to afford to pay off the loan by the end of their degree.
- It will put off brighter, poorer students from going to university
- Universities will struggle to get students attending courses.
- There will be less motivated students in younger years, because they know they won't be able to achieve their goal or careers by going to university because they know they won't be able to afford it.
- There will also be less tourists visiting holiday destinations because they are paying off such a big debt.
- It will also affect shops and companies because they will not be getting as much money as they are used to, because students can't afford as much.
- The British health care work force will decrease because less people will be qualifying as doctors and nurses.
- There will be limited emergency service staff, lawyers, teachers, solicitors, scientists, etc.
- The government are only increasing the fees because they want more money.
- David Cameron seems only interested in the people who can afford to go to university and who are of a higher class.

OUR CAMPAIGN

OUR CAMPAIGN:

- We are creating a campaign against the rising tuition fees, which the government is enforcing.
- Our campaign will include:
- Column in the Bradley Stoke Matters booklet.
- Some information in the school newsletter.
- Video-about our campaign.
- Leaflets and Posters.
- Letter to local MPs to express our opinion.

Jack Lopresti—Local MP
London University Protests

This campaign has given us the opportunity to voice our opinion on the new scheme that the government want to introduce. We hope that we have brought this to the attention of local people who will give us their support as we feel strongly that we should be given an equal chance as past students.
